The Non-medical Plan will cover you for trip cancellation and interruption.

With regards to cancellation and interruption insurance, Covid and the travel advisory was declared a known event in March 2020 and it is not possible to make a claim for cancellation and say it is due to the pandemic or the travel advisory. All other risks stated in the policy are covered. These policies do provide coverage due to unexpected illness, so if you did contract covid prior to departure and your doctor says you are not fit to fly by the time the trip comes around then you should have a valid claim, or if you test positive for covid as a result of a pre-departure test. It's very important to read the policy to understand the normal risks that are covered because these are the year in year out reasons we see cancellations, such as immediate family gets sick, got in a car accident and doctor says I can't fly yet, etc.
